Bush plans Paris visit

Cheysson concludes talks in Washington

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AFP) — Vice-President George Bush will visit Paris June 24 to "establish direct contact with President (Francois) Mitterrand at an early date," Secretary of State Alexander Haig announced Saturday at the conclusion of talks with French External Affairs Minister Claude

The announcement was made to newsmen as Haig and Cheyssoo reported that a wide identity of views bad been achieved in the course of their cooversations. The talks were the second phase of Cheysson's three-day visit to Washington. Both meetings lasted two bours.

Haig said that he and Cheyssoo were agreed on five main points:

1. There should he no foreign intervention in Poland and the Poles should be left to determine their own future.

2. Namibia should he granted indepen-dence soon on the basis of United Nations Resolution 435 "with necessary elabora-

3. Diplomatic efforts should be continued in the Middle East to settle the short-term problem of the current Lebanese crisis and the long-term problem of peace in the region. 4. The Atlantie Alliance is the "fundamental anchor of peace and stability" in the Western world, 5. It is imperative that Soviet forces withdrawn from Afghanistan.

Cheysson told the newsmen that complete accord had not been reached on economic and monetary questions of interest to both the United States and Europe'.

Alluding to the U.S. policy of maintaining hig interest rates to combat inflation, which bas led to a rise in the value of the dollar, Cheysson said that decisions by one country that affect all other members of the Western Alliance should be discussed beforehand.

Cheysson told French journalists separately that the rise of the dollar's value and high interest rates were oow the principal points of difference between Washington and

The minister said that the "rise of the dollar has represented for us a third petroleum shock." He was referring to the two previous rounds of sharp oil-price increases imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Chevsson's meeting with Haig completed his schedule of talks with U.S. officials. Since his arrival on Thursday, Cheysson bas met with President Ronald Reagan, Vice-President George Bush, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and Commerce Secretary Malcolmn Baldridge, as well as with Haig. Cheysson announced that he would meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko io September, probably in New York at the general session of the United Nations Generai Assembly.

RECEPTION: King Khaled received the Ruler of Bahrain, Sheikh Issa ibn Saiman Al Khalifah at his residence in Geneva Sunday where he stopped over enroute to an official visit to the U.K. beginning Tuesday. The stock picture above shows the two leaders. Sheikh Issa was also at Geneva airport to welcome the King.

Royal visit to emphasize Saudi-British relations

By a Staff Writer London Bureau

LONDON, June 7 - King Khaled's three-day state visit to Britain, heginning Tuesday, will be the second by a Saudi Arabian monarch within the past 15 years. The first such visit was made by King Faisal in Saudi Arabia's ambassador bere Sheikh Nasser Al-Manqour bas said be is confident that King Khaled's visit will have a deep impact on bilateral relations.

In an interview with Arab News and Okaz, Manqour said the king's talks will center on three aspects — political, economic and military. On the political, he said, "The Kingdom does not have any special political problem except that it has adopted the Palestine cause as its first and last issue". He, however, hoped that Britain will play a positive and effective role in settling the issue, especially when it takes over the chairmanship of the European Parliament a. ine end of the current month. The ambassador added that "the British understand this issue very well, but we don't expect any miracles from them".

In regard to the economic aspect of hilateral talks, he said, they will receive priority in view of the deficit in Britain's balance of payments with Saudi Arabia, which reached billion SR7 - billion last year. He added that Britain is striving to boost its exports to Saudi Arabia and to boost the area of activity of its companies in implementing the Kingdom's Third Five-Year Development Plan, mainly after the fall of Pound's value.

Asked whether Saudi Arahia will ask anything in exchange for widening the area of ecocomic cooperation between the two countires, the ambassador said: "We do not want any price, nor do we have anything except the Palestine issue. We, however, do not want others to interfere in our affairs. We want them to respect our traditions, systems and religion, for we regard their tradinoos, systems and religion, for we regard their traditions, systems and religion. Io our relations with any friendly country, we take into consideration the fact that it is a friendly country, and it is expected of a friend to he most understanding of the issues of a friend.

Manqour expressed Saudi Arabia's bitter feelings over the propaganda appearing in the British media which always try to barm Saudi Arabia. He said, "they speak of press freedom, for which we bave regard; but freedom should not harm others, and espe-cially oot friends. You can enjoy a piece of music in your house provided it does oot distrub your neighbors. You can carry on your religious rites hut you should not try to criticize or undermine the faith of others. If you really want others to respect you, then you must give them your respect".

In this connection, it should be recalled that the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) bad announced its intention to screen an anti-Arab Jewish film next Wednesday, "at a time when King Khaled will be dining with the Queen." But, after Arab protests and pressures from the British Foreign Office, the BBC rescinded its decision.

Regarding the purchase of British weapons, the ambassador said this will be included in the discussion. He added that Minister of Defense and Aviatioo Prince Sultan held a discussion with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, and it was decided that a Saodi Arabian delegation will come to Britain to review British arms and then to place an order for the Kingdom's requirements.

200 die in Indian railroad accident joined a search Sunday for survivors of an accident in the northern Indian state of Bihar in which 200 people were feared killed.

Seven coaches of the passenger train plunged into the Kosi River Saturday near Samastipur, more than 200 kms (125 miles) from the state capital of Patna, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported.

A railway ministry spnkesman in New Delhi said at least 80 bodies had so far been recovered, but there was as yet no official estimate of the total number of casualties. The spokesman said navy divers had been airlifted to the spot. He said it was oot immediately known how the accident occurred except that it was caused by a powerful evolonie storm as the train was crossing a bridge.

An earlier report from the United News of India (UNI) said the hridge had collapsed and the coaches bad fallen into the river, but the spokesman said there had been no damage to the hridge and traffic on the route had PTI quoted an official report as saying there were 500 passengers in the train's nine coaches. Bihar state governor Kidwai expressed deep shock at the accident and said he had asked the authorities to rush immediate relief to the survivors.

BEITEDDIN, Lebanon, June 7 (Agencies) — The foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia, Syria and Kuwait conferred with Lebanese leaders in this mountain resort town Sunday to defuse a Syrian-Christian confrontation and seek a peaceful coexistence formula to end the strife in Lebanon.

As the three visiting foreign ministers deliberated hehind closed doors with Lebanon's President Elias Sarkis and Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan, Lebanon's state radio said an Israeli jet crashed the sound barrier overhead. Reporters covering the meeting said the sonie boom shook the 19th century palace where the conference was under way 30 kilometers southeast of Beirut. There was a sonie boom over the capital at the same time in what has become a daily routine for Israeli warplanes since Syria deployed SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles in east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley five weeks ago.

The three ministers - Prince Saud Al-Faisal, Abdul-Halim Khaddam of Syria and Sheikh Sahah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah of Kuwait - drove into Beiteddin in a motorcade from Damascus that traveled within sight of SAM-6 batteries.

Arab and Third World diplomats in Damascus said the outcome of the Beiteddin conference, which also is attended by Arab League Secretary General Chadli Klibi, would be crucial for Habih's missioo. Sarkis presided over the first two-hour session of talks here as special units from Syria's crack defense battations and the restructured Lebanese regular army pulled an airtight security dragnet around the palace that serves as the summer residence of the Lebanese presi-

There was oo official statement oo the topics discussed in the first session. Khaddam drove off after lunch to a meeting in the neighboring town of Mukhtara with Walid Jumblatt, who heads a coalidon of Lebanon's Nationalist Muslim Grouping. Prince Saud and Sheikh Sabah left together to the Saudi Arabian amhassador's mansion in Yarze, the pinewood suburb, for talks with leaders of Lebanon's rightist forces.

A conference spokesman said a second round of talks would be beld at Beiteddin after the three ministers return from their talks with the rival Lebanese leaders who fought the 1975-76 civil war. Before the conference got under way, a government spokesman told reporters a plan to get Lebanese leaders discuss a peaceful coexistence formula and to halt the Syrian-Christian confrootatioo in Lehanoo were the main agenda topics.

"We're acting as a follow-up committee to implement Arah League resolutions on Lebanon" said Prince Saud as he went into the first session of talks." We shall try to bring about a quick peace in Lebanon."

Klibi defended Syria's deployment of the missiles as a "strategic response to Israel's claim of monopoly over sovereign Arah skies" and said an "insight into Israel's motives in imperative is the Habih missioo in succeed, in an interview published Sunday by the Beirut English-language independent magazine Monday Morning.

In a message to Libyan leader Muammar Qaddafi Arafat said Habih was "denying the Palestinian people their rights ... and striking at the strength of the Palestinian, Syrian and Lebanese resistance to the aggression of Israel and the Camp David plot," the message said.

Arafat called on the PLO's fellowmembers of the Steadfastness Front-Algeria. Libya, South Yemen and Syria to increase their contacts, the agency added. He stressed the need "to take appropriate, swift and firm measures against Sudan" which has normalized relations with Egypt and "meet the American and Zionist imperialist plots against the Palestinian revolution, Syria and the Lebanese people." These "plots" had become serious "with the size of Israeli military concentrations in south Lebanon which are preparing to begin their aggression."

The Islamic nation declared its noblest stance when Habib Chatti, the secretary general of the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) said that the 12th Islamie foreign ministers' conference has adopted a resolution to implement the call of the holy war (Jihad) to, liberate Jerusalem from the Zionist sacrilege.

The Muslims of the world will welcome the decision being fully convinced that too many resolutions and recommendations will neither scare the enemy nor restore the Arabs even one inch of the occupied lands. The ideal way to resist Israel is to resort to force, and when the oation adopts this method with Israel the whole world will give its consideration and respect to this nation. Anything short of this will only mean the squandering of time and effort.

That the Baghdad conference bas taken a resolute stance on the matter, every Muslim in the world feel that the past years have not been lost but history is being written afresh. This is what we know and believe. But, at the same, time, we will urge the countries of the world, especially the U.S. and the Soviet Union, to realize this very well. Both these countries are playing a dangerous game against the Islamic nation and the Jerusalem issue the U.S. through its political, economic and financial assistance to Israel and the Soviet Union through the migration of its Jewish population into Israel.

Top Pakistani musician sings for school fund

JEDDAH, June 7 — The current five-day musical program, featuring world-famous singer Mehdi Hassan, is already a great success. The singer was overwhelmed by the Hassan did not, in fact, come specifically for this program. He came here to perform "Umrah". When the Pakistan embassy officials beard about his arrival, they approached him with a request to give a performance in aid of their school building fund which they had earlier launched. Hassan agreed immediately, saying "I always try to belp worthy causes."

The embassy officials said that at present the school is housed in two different buildings. One is a gift by Sayed Sharbatli and the other rented. They have 3,500 children of different nationalities. The demand for school seats was so great that the officials decided to construct a bigger building. The blue print is ready, and according to the plan, the construction of the school should be over by the end of September 1982.

Hassan is oot an ordinary man. He is a force to reckon with in musical world. He is the leading "ghazal" singer of oot only Pakistan but also of sub-continent. Ghazal is a popular genre of Urdu poetry dealing with love and affection composed in a particular style and diction. He also sings elassical light music. His bold over these two fields is so great that be earned the title "Ghazal King". Lata Mangeshkar, the melody queen of India's silver screen, once said that "there is extraordinary power in Hassan's throat". Such is his fame.

Hassan was born into a family of singers. "I started singing when I was six years old, that was about 1940' be said. "Since then I bave not given up singing." His singing career took him to several continents. And be sang before many maharajas in India. This itself was an achievement, considering his age and the stiff competition at the time. He has to his credit more than 20,000 songs. For the last 26 years he bas been singing for the Pakistan Radio, TV and films. In recognition of his contribution to music the film industry bestowed on him "Nigar" and "Graduate" awards nearly

He was the first man to introduce grow singing of devotional songs in praise of God. This became very popular. In 1979 be visited India at the invitation of his friedns and gave several concerts in different cities taking that country by storm.

Mehdi Hassan will give a performance Monday June 8, at the Hayatt Regency where admission will be by ticket, and there will also be a program at the Pakistan embassy June 11 and 12.

May seek trade revival

Chadli to discuss M.E. in Moscow term extended

ALGIERS, June 7 (AFP) - President Chadli Benjedid is expected to discuss the Middle East tension and prospects for reviving Algerian-Soviet trade relations when he travels to Moscow Monday for an official friendship visit to the Soviet Union.

Col. Chadli is the fifth major Arab-world leader to visit Moscow since fighting resumed in Lebanon, hringing on the risk of direct confrontation between Syria and Israel. Syria's Hafez Assad, Jordan's King Hussein. Libya's Muammar Qaddafi and the Palestine Liberation Organization's Yasser Arafat have all backed the Soviet proposal for an international conference on the Mideast crisis. It is Moscow's attempt to get a hand hack in the region's diplomacy, dominated since Camp David by the United States.

If Afghanistan comes up during Chadli's talks with Leonid Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders, there could be differences. Algeria has never approved of the Soviet intervention, hut bas not taken a public position against it so as to avoid playing into the hands of "imperialist and neo-colonialist powers." Although the trip to Moscow will be Chadli's first, Algeria has a history of close contact with the Soviet Union that goes back to the initial visit of then-President Ahmad Ben Bella in 1964.

PLO denies ETA link

SEVILLA, Spain, June 7 (AFP) - The Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) representative in Spain, Munzer Dajani has denied that there were any links between his organization and the Basque separatist ETA movement.

In a press conference Saturday Dajani thus rejected recent charges brought hy Manuel Fraga Iribame, bead of Spain's rightwing Popular Alliance Party, that documents he had been shown during a visit to Israel established such links.

The Palestinian official, who came here upon an invitation to participate in a congress bere of the Socialist Party of Andalucia, said charges of collusion of the PLO with ETA were aimed at ohtaining an expulsion of the Palestinians from Spain.

Naim Khader buried in Amman

AMMAN, June 7 (AP) - The body of Naim Khader, the Palestine Liberation Organization's representative who was shot and killed in Belgium earlier this week, was buried here Sunday.

The body of the 41-year-old Palestinian was first flown to Beirut, where a requiem mass service was beld with PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat in attendence. Khader was shot hy an unidentified gunman in Brussels Monday. He was head of the PLO office in the Belgian capital and acted as unofficial ambassador to the European Common Market. The PLO blamed Israel for the killing.

Jordan's Minister for Occupled Territories Hassan Ibrahim and the head of the PLO's political department, Farouk Khaddoumi, were on hand at the airport to receive the body at Amman international airport.

The funeral procession began near the Jordan University Hospital, then moved to the church where prayers were held. Khader was later buried as crowds carried on slogans in support of the Palestinian struggle.

Nusrat's jail

tion of Begum Nusrat Bhutto, widow of executed former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, has been extended by martial law authorities for an additional three months, reports said.

Begum Bhutto, who succeeded her late busband as chairman of the outlawed Pakistan People's Party (PPP), was jailed March 7 following the hijacking of a Pakistan International Airlines jetliner by three men accused of being PPP sympathizers. Her daughter Benazir Bhutto was also arrested.

The Zia government has accused the PPP of involvement in the hijacking of the Pakistani airliner to Kabul and Damascus, but the party leadership has strongly denied the charge. Three hijackers bave denied having links with the PPP, claiming to be members of Al-Zulfikar, a terrorist organization headed by the late prime minister's son Murtaza Bbutto, who lives in Kabul.

TEHRAN, June 7 (R) - A former minister who held several posts under the deposed Shah of Iran will go on trial Monday, the revolutionary prosecutor said in a statement published by Tehran oewspapers Sunday. He was identified as Seyed Ravad Sadr, former interior minister, minister of justice, and ambassador to Japan.

He is accused of "strengthening the pillars of the hated regime", membership of nowoutlawed political parties, belonging to Freemasonry organizations, opposing the Islamic revolution, and possession of a weapon and alcobolic drinks.

Sadr is also charged with cooperating with two former prime ministers, Hassan Ali Mansour, who was assassinated in the 1960s, and Amir Abbas Hoveyda, who was executed after the revolution that toppled the Shah in

Groups of civilians Suoday shouted fierce slogans indirectly attacking President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr at the end of a prade here of tens of thousands of Iranian revolutionary guards and Islamic security

The parade was organized to mark "pasdaran day," in bonor of the para-military militia set up after the revolution. As it was coming to a close, the civilian protestors shouted, among other slogans, "Death to those who are against (Ayatollab Muhammad) Behesbti." Ayatollah Beheshti, the supreme court president and leader of the fundamentalist Islamic Republic Party, is one of Bani-Sadr's staunchest opponents.

The slogan-chanting began shortly after Hodjatoleslam Mahalati, Ayatollah Khomemi's representative to the pasdaran, urged Iranian leaders to uphold the country's constitution. "If you don't respect it, the people will consider their vote (for you) annulled," Mahalati said.

The warning appeared aimed at Bani-Sadr. accused by Ayatollah Beheshti last week of violating the constitution.

Soviet TV shows horrors of Afghan war

MOSCOW, June 7 (AFP) - Soviet televisioo, in an abrupt departure from Moscow's usually reassuring picture of the Afghan situation, Saturday broadcast a startling series of pictures to show "the horrible consequences of war" in that country.

The program showed mutilated bodies, destroyed public buildings, a chador-clad mother crying at the grave of her son who had been"killed by the bandits" and a cemetery for 800 victims of the war. The program, apparently aimed at justifying the continued presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan, denounced what it called "the undeclared war against Kabul by the mercenaries trained

Klaauw holds talks on M.E. in Bahrain

BAHRAIN, June 7 (R) - Dutch Foreign Minister Christopher Van der Klaauw, the current chairman of the EEC council of ministers, arrived in Bahrain Sunday and started discussions on the Middle East.

He is on the second leg of a Gulf tour to hear Arah views on possibilities for a Middle East peace initiative by the European Economic Community, Klaauw arrived from Kuwait and was met at the airport by his Bahraini counterpart. Klaanw will report to the EEC after his Gulf tour which will also include Qatar, the United Arab Emirates and Oman.

The minister has visited 14 countries since he was given the fact-finding mission. Kuwait Saturday welcomed Europe's initiative to settle the Middle East problem, but demanded that the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) be allowed to participate in any set-tlement, Klaauw has been seeking opinions on the issues of Jerusalem, the Israelioccupied territories, Palestinian selfdetermination and national security.

Eban criticizes Begin's attack on Schmidt

BONN, June 7 (AFP) - Former Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban has charged that, in his recent attacks on West German Chancellor Helmut, Schmidt, Israeli Premier Menahem Begin had acted "irresponsibly."

In an interview with the weekend paper Welt Am Sonntag, Eban said that there was "no proof" of Begin's implicit charges that the chancellor during World War II was associated with Nazi activities. He added that Israelis were entitled to expect that their government maintain a foreign relations dialogue that was at once "constructive, civil-ized, respectful of the truth and dignified." He implied Begin had not lived up to these expectations.

In reply tn Begin's declaration that all Germans had a share of responsibility in the genocide of Jews in the Nazi era, Eban said that "nn one can expect a sense of personal responsibility from a German who was not

RAO'S VISIT

Committee of the commit

The visit of the Indian Foreign Minister Narasimha Rao to Pakistan which begins today augurs well for the future of the two neighboring nations and emphasizes that there is a lot that is of mutual interest

Rao's primary concern appears to be Pakistan's decision to reequip its armed forces with American weapons. This occurs in the aftermath of the gross Soviet aggression and outright occupation of Afghanistan, although Mrs. Indira Gandhi has rightly acknowledged Pakistan's right to prepare its forces to defend the country. This has become even more pressing following the invasion of Afghanistan and the sheer inability of the rest of the world to do anything about it.

But Pakistan's rearming should not lead to a costly arms race between the two already poor countries. Because of mutual bostility and suspicious created by three wars and the nagging dispute over Kashmir, the two bave been engaged in a costly defense posture which they can ill afford. India depended beavily on the Soviet Union while Pakistan counterbalanced that by throwing in its lot with the People's Republic of China.

What can Rao achieve in Islamabad at this stage? The two governments are under no illusions about any brilliant achievements. They can certainly ease their worries by talking frankly about the dangers facing the whole region. Their mutual relations are important since the Simla Agreement was signed by Mrs. Gandhi and the late Zulfikar Ali Bbutto following the war that brought about Bang-

Pakistan will take a long time to match the military strength of India. This nation already bas a sizable arms industry of its own including aircraft, naval sbips and beavy weapons, not to mention its nuclear capability. Still, India will want reassurance that Pakistan's new acquisitions will not be aimed at its borders. One step may be taken in that direction if both parties agreed to reductions in force levels along their common borders.

At the same time India might be able to play a more positive role in reducing Pakistan's fears of Soviet intentions by persuading the Soviets to start contemplating withdrawal from Afghanistan which bas sent jitters down the spines of the states nearby. Gandhi did not bless the invasion, nor did she exactly condemn it as an act of aggression as her father Jawaharlal Nehru did when Britain and France invaded Egypt in collusion with Israel in 1956.

In any case, such a meeting can only do good especially if it is followed up to its logical conclusion which is to maintain the peace and security of the region and save money for alleviating the misery of their suffering humanity. That will be wiser than remitting hardearned foreign reserves to foreign arms peddlers.

Mitterrand's uncertain French connections

By Robert Little

As the new president of France, François Mitterrand, completed appointment of members of his cabinet last month, observers of Middle East affairs bave become increasingly confused as to the likely direction of his government's policy on the Arab-Istaeli conflict. Before his election Mitterrand's outspoken pro-Israeli views were well-known, which were underlined by the telegram of profuse congratulations he received from Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin after the results of the French presidential election were announced. As a frequent visitor to Israel-four times in the past six years - Mitterrand has maintained close cordial relations with the country's three most recent pre-

What has caused many raised eyebrows among the French president's personal entourage, bowever, was the omission from his cabinet of his longtime friend and political associate, Jacques Attali, who has been appointed an adviser of the president instead. Attali, a Jewish businessman of North African origin, is a well-known militant Zionist who has played a prominent part in many fund-raising projects for Israel in France. At the present time he is the vice-president of Fonde Sociale Juif Unifie, French Jewry's principal national social and propaganda organization.

On the other band, among those in Mitterrand's cabinet who are either declared supporters or are sympathetic to Israel are the new Prime Minister (and Mayor of Lille), Pierre Maurroy: the Minister of the Interior (and Mayor of Marseilles), Gaston Deferre; Minister of Justice, Maurice Faure; Minister of Education, Alain Savary; Defense Minister, Charles Hernu; and Michel Crepeau, minister of the environment. Those ministers in the cabinet opposed to Israel include Claude Cheysson, the foreign minister, who is a long-time staunch supporter of the Palestinian cause; Jean-Pierre Chevenement, minister for scientific research and a leader of the anti-Israeli CERS (Centre d' Etudes et Recherches Socialistes); Michel Jobert, the minister of foreign trade; Jean-Pierre Cot, minister for cooperation; and Michel Rocard, the minister for economic planning. So while observers bave been straining hard to catch the slightest straws in the wind for signs of a clear direction, each move of the new French president has only served to confound the confusion. In the middle of putting the finishing touches to his ministerial team Mitterrand found the time to send a personal message of thanks to Begin for his congratulatory telegram, accepting Begin's invitation to visit Israel again "when circumstances permit."

At the same time, the president's brother, Gen. Jacques Mitterrand, who heads the Societe Nationale de l'Industrie Aero-Spatiale, the French state-owned aircraft and arms manufacturer, was sent to Saudi Arabia, reportedly carrying a message from the president to say that France does not intend to change its Middle East policies. Which must come as a great surprise to many, not least Begin and former President Valery Giscard d'Esta-

Perhaps a more true indication of where Mitterrand's sympathies lie was his invitation to Professor Elie Wiesel, the chairman of the United States Holocaust Memorial Council and a personal friend of Begin, and Pierre Dreyfus, an industrialist and member of the French Committee of the World Zionist Federation, to attend his official investiture.

What the rest of France's EEC partners are making of all this at the moment is entirely open to conjecture. All of them will undoubtedly be pleased with the appointment of Cheysson as foreign minis-ter. Cheysson, it is believed, can be safely relied upon to continue to give the same support as his predecessor to the proposed European initiative when details are formulated at the council of ministers meeting in July.

The real test of Mitterrand's commitment to the joint European policies on the Middle. East when weighed against his friendship for Israel will come when his cabinet is asked to endorse the EEC's claim that the PLO must be involved in any future settlement negotiations. Both Begin's Likud Party and Shimon Peres' Labor Party have declared in their policy statements that they would not be prepared to negotiate with PLO leaders.

While Mitterrand was reassuring Begin of his continuing friendship and sympathy, British Fore-ign Secretary Lord Carrington was in Algiers holding talks with the Algerian Foreign Minister Benyahia. A senior foreign office official accompanying the British minister reaffirmed that it was the British government's view that "the PLO must be fully involved if a European initiative is to make any real progress."

But it was also significant that the same spokesman was at pains to play down expediations that when Carrington takes over as chairman of the community's council of ministers, the EEC will find a magic formula to solve the Arab-Israeli crisis. "I would be surprised if we could find a magic formula to solve the problem in just six months. But I will be even more surprised if we fail to make a worthwhile progress toward 'a solution," he told reporters.

An interesting point of speculation that has been raised in . Brussels is centered around the prospect of a win for the Israeli Labor Party in the elections later this month. Labor leader Peres is a longstanding-friend and ally of Mitterrand in Socialist International meetings. Should Peres defeat Begin, it is being suggested, a joint approach by Chancellor Schmidt of West Germany and the French president to pursuade the Peres administration to accept the PLO's representatives might just possibly suc-

But the corridors and restaurants around the community's buildings have for long been a fertile breeding ground for "informed" rumor and grandiose speculation. Not much of which turns out to be very productive.

The fight for Polish party leadership

By Mark Frankland

WARSAW -Less than two months before Poland's Communists bold their congress on July 14. Bastille Day, the conviction is spreading among ordinary party members that they, and not a seemingly hesitant leadership, must be the party's saviors. It is bard to jndge bow general this feeling is but visits to two important and very different areas, Krakow and the Lower Silesian capital of Wroclaw, leave no doubt of its intensity.

Krakow, once a royal capital, is shabbily beautiful, proudly academic, and still the city of Karol Wojtyla. It never liked Edward Gierek and he never liked it. Wrocław is a young Polish city. Until 1945 it was Germany's Breslau. Today's inhabitants of Lower Silesia are the children of displaced young Poles who moved there after the war. It seems an appropriate home for a newly created and tough workers' youth movement, independent of Solidarity but sharing its aims.

Last month rank-and-file Communists from 150 enterprises in Lower Silesia met not far from Wroclaw and let out a cry of discontent. They got together, one speaker said, because of "irritation, lack of answers, rejected invitations (he meant to leaders to come and see them) and the simple need to talk "

This was yet another "borizontal structure", Communist jargon for meetings outside and therefore uncontrolled by the official party structure. Several weeks ago such meetings were thought shocking. Now local party officials embrace them and say they are inevitable, given Warsaw's slowness to act. The mood at this meeting was bitter and suspicious. Why badn't the Central Committee sent someone to take part? It was deliberate, one speaker said. "They want to call us a fraction, but since when can the majority be called a fraction and we are the majority."

They agreed that meetings like theirs should keep up the pressure intil the congress. Then, if the congress was a failure, one speaker seeing the party will remain without a base, or there will be a new party from the base."

There are powerful emotions at work here, A senior official of the Krakow Party remarked that after last summer's strikes "there was a total sense of guilt that paralyzed the party." The rank-and-file bave now passed beyond that to anger with the leadership that brought this bumilian on on them Hence the insistence that in tuture the leadership must be responsible to them.

This comes out strongly in the Krakow Party's proposals for new party statutes which go far beyond the changes the leadership seems disposed to accept. The Krakow proposals would return power to the basic party organizations to which every member belongs. According to Krakow they shouldhavethe right to demand information on any subject. They should bave the right to make yearly appraisals of the party leaders, and to dismiss them

Half of the politburo members should be from basic party organizations in large factories. Basic organizations should bave the right to propose the dismissal of officials of the party apparatus.

The discontent of the rank and file is alread making itself felt in the local party. By the end of June, now men will have been elected to run the party organizations in factories and rural districts the humblest level, up to the leadership of Poland's 49 counties.

The evidence from Krakow and Wrodaw, and it does not appear to be exceptional, is that apart from rural party organizations, an almost entirely new local party leadership is in the making. At party headquarters in Wroclaw they expect the county committee to lose all but 10 percent of its old menbers and four out of six of its party secretaries. The picture is roughly similar in Krakow. A party reformer there said that it was hard to talk of hardliners in the Krakow party any more because, in the course of the elections, "they have almost all gone. Even we, the reformers, have been surprised and almost frightened by this,"

A party official in Krakow was shaken after attending party election meetings in factories and mines. "My head was in chaos because there was a total, emotional rejection of the past. It is often expressed to gain applause. Say two sentences criticizing the past and theparty apparatus and you get 90 percent of the votes."

What kind of people are the delegates who are being elected to the party congress? It is impossible to say, the Krakow official believes, because they too are being chosen on the principle of rejection of the past, so it is "the least known" who will come through. But two things are know about them. They are mostly in their twenties and thirties, the generation that until recently was called here "forgotten and downtrodden," and many are from the technical intelligentsia, which Poles point out, has provided this country with some of its best known leaders for 200 years.

It remains to be seen how quickly they will learn the realities of Polish politics which press daily on the moderates in the Polish Polithuro led by First Secretary Stanislaw Kania and of which Pravda's recent warning against excessive changes was the latest example. (ONS)

Saudi Arabian Press

Newspapers Sunday mostly led with the arrival of by it to resolve the Lebanese crisis figured promi-King Khaled in Geneva Saturday, from where he will go to London Tuesday on a state visit to Britain at the invitation of Queen Elizabeth II. They also included in the lead story that the King has delegated powers to Crown Prince Fahd to look after the people's interest and to run the affairs of the state during his absence from the Kingdom.

In a broad front-page story, Al Riyadh quoted Mayor of Riyadh Sheikh Abdullah Al-Naim as saying that SR 1.5 billion has been allocated in the current fiscal year for the capital's projects and another SR 1.13 billion for the expropriation of properties. In a page on story, newspapers reported that finance ministers of the member states of the Guif Cooperation Council will meet in Riyadh Monday to give a final shape to the unified treaty for economic cooperation among the GCC states.

Al Riyadh highlighted on its front page a state-ment by Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, President of the United Arab Emirates, in which he reiterated that the creation of a rapid deployment force will be "an infringement on our sovereignty and dignity". Al Riyadh and Okaz further gave page one beadlights to a seminar at the Institute of Public Administration beld Saturday under the Chairmanship of Governor of Riysdh, Prince Salman, who said that the aim of the third development plan is to achieve a comprehensive development in the counnently on the front page of the newspapers. The Saudi Arabian embassy in Beirut denied that its ambassador told Al Itahad newspaper of Abu Dbabi that the Kingdom bas any set date or plan to solve the Lebanese crisis.

In an editorial on U.S. emissary Philip Habib's shuttle to the Middle East, Al Medina said that Syria was quite clear in its stance after it realized that Habib's task has become biased. Therefore, the paper urged the U.S. give up its partiality mward Israel if it really wants its emissary to succeed in his mission. It said, bowever, that the coming days will disclose whether Habib has anything new to convince Syria of his mission or whether he will just continue to move in a vicious circle.

Dealing with U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig's letter to PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat to use bis good offices with Syria in the context of the missiles crisis, Al Jazirah said that this approach is a dear diplomatic recognition by the U.S. of the constructive role which the PLO can play in the resolution of the crises which bedevil regional and international peace. The paper, conceded that although the contact was held indirectly, it did not minimize its significance. A mere appeal to exercise selfrestraint will not belp Haig to stop Israel from committing assaults on the Peoples of Lebanon, Syria and Palestine, said the paper, asking the Secretary of State to remember that Israel is using Ameican weapons in attacking the Arabs, and its economy is being supported by the U.S. treasury.

Haig can really check Israeli intransigence and bring bis country's efforts to a successful finale only if he remembers these hard facts, the paper said. Commenting on the Arab follow-up committee which is to meet in Beiteddine, Lebanon, Al Riyadh noted that Israel felt concerned with intensive Arab efforts, so it escalated its military activity in South Lebanon and installed 'Hawk' missiles, perhaps in answer to the Syrian SAM missiles in Bekaa. The paper added that Israel's aim is clearly to suspend the deliberations of the follow-up committee and to jeopardize the movement of the U.S. emissary.

Okaz also dealt with the follow-up committee, observing that the success of the committee's deliberations will help to fill the gap through which the enemy infiltrates into Lebanon. It will also give great support to Arab efforts at the international level to convince world leaders that peace and stability cannot prevail in the Middle East without a solution to the Palestine issue, the paper added.

Al Nadwa reiterated its belief that the Lebanese problem can be solved only at the Arab level. It advised Philip Habib to carry this impression to the U.S. administration, remembering the fact that any solution not considering the Arab character of Lebanon will not only be rejected but opposed by the Arabs. They will continue their legitimate struggle against world Zionism and Israel, remembering that the U.S. administration . is supporting Israel and is trying to internationalize the Lebanese issue, the paper added.

Children paint plight of Palestine refugees

PAINTINGS: Several paintings by Palestinian children that won UNICEF awards are on display in Seoul for the first time. The paintings, which depict life in a Palestinian refugee camps and their struggle against occupation by Israel, were loaned to the society from the Arab League office in Tokyo. From left is a painting of a mosque signifying Jerusalem, and a caption above it reads: "Peace be upon the Holy City; the second depicts a battle between Palestinian refugees and invading Israeli jet fighters; the third shows a refugee in fatigues rushing to battle, and the fourth paints the daily life of a camp whose residents seem undisturbed by an Israeli helicopter over the camp.

SEOUL, South Korea — A record oumber of 2,000 Korean and Arab personalities were invited to the Palestine children's painting exhibition which opened here this week. The exhibit, the first ever to be beld in South Korea, was organized by the Korea-Arab Friendship Society (KAFS). "This Far Eastern natioo knows little about the plight of the Palestinian people," explained Young Yole Rew, KAFS chairman. "The society was established to promote understanding of the Palestinian cause, and to deepen cultural, religious and social relations between the peoples of Korea and the Arab world," Rew told Arab News before the opening of the exhibit on June 3.

South Korea bas unilaterally frozen its diplomatic relations with Israel and called for the return of the Palestinian people to its homeland. It has also invited the Palestine Liberatico Organization to open an office in Seoul, but the Foreign Ministry's Director General of Middle Eastern Affairs Chong Yang Park said the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), which has good relations with North Korea, had not responded to the offer.

However Chairman Rew added that the society "strives to promote friendship between the Korean and Arab peoples on the basis of mutual understanding of the other's culture. The con-profit organization was formally established in 1973 with the support of the Arab League and the Korean Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

KAFS membership grew from 35 in it planning year of 1971, to 300 this year. The society gained importance from the fact that many leading political and economic figures are oo its board. These include the former Speaker of the Korean National Assembly, Il Iwoo Chung; Deputy Prime Minister, Hyun Hwack Shin and Hwan Ey Lee; President of Mun Hwa TV-Radio Broadcasting; and the Kyung Hyang Daily News Corporation.

Other nembers are drawn from Korean's major construction and commercial groups operating in Saudi Arabia and the Middle Chairman Rew, who is also dean of the Graduate School, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies, Seoul, said before the 1973 October war the Koreans knew about Israel. One year after the war Seoul adopted a pro-Arab line and called for wider understanding of the Middle East conflict. The favorable political dimate encouraged the society to double its efforts within Arab circles and succeed in screening a four-part documentary film it received from the Arab League Office in Tokyo on the Korean televion network. Another documentary film on Arab-Korean relations was shown at the opening of the painting exhibition. The film will be distributed to Korean movie theaters for display in the news reel interval.

The society's chairman, who was honorary consul in Jordan in 1961-65 and paid visits to Palestinian refugee camps in Jordan and Gaza, plans to initiate a scholarship fund for Arab students to train in Korea. According to Rew funds will be collected on a 50-50 basis from Korean companies and interested Arab quarters.

Rew outlined the society's objectives: to provide Koreao and Arab peoples with a channel through which they can exchange views and ideas of commoo interests; and to undertake research on development of Korea and the Arab world. The society launches campaigns to accelerate mutual friendship and cooperatioo, publishes a quarterly journal, Korea and the Arab World, offers threeweekly Arabic courses to Koreans and spoosors public lectures, seminars, and exhibitions oo the Arab countries. Two Egyptian professors give a three-mooth language course to about 50 Koreans at the Society's Arab Cultural Center. The students mainly come from trading companies doing business in the Arab world.

EXHIBITION: The Korea-Arab Friendship Society opened June 3-20 a painting exhibition by Palestinian children. Spanning the three-story society building is a white banner advertising the opening of the event, the first ever to be beld in Korea. The banner reads: 430 the time of way children testify.

ARAB CENTER: Overlooking a main street in Seoul is the building of the Korea-Arab Friendship Society which also houses the Arab Cultural Center as the plaque (above) indicates in Korean and Arabic languages.

New drug cures war neurosis

CHICAGO, Illinois, June 7 (AP) — A new drug has been successful in ending nightmares and flashbacks some combat veterans suffer after a war, according to a New York psychiatric researcher.

Called phenelzine sulfate, the new drug may he a hreakthrough in treating nightmares and panic attacks due to war neuroses, says Dr. George L. Hogben, clinical assistant professor of psychiatry at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine io New Hogben, writing in the current issue of the Archives of General Psychiatry, says the drug produced immediate improvement in five veterans suffering from war neuroses that had been tormenting them from five to 30 years. The patieots had been through World War II, the Korean War or the Vietnam conflict and had been treated with psychotherapy and other drugs without success, the report said.

In studies conducted at the Broax Veterans Administration Center, all five patients felt significantly calmer almost immediately after being given the drug, which has been used to treat anxiety and depression, Hogben reported. Nightmares ended for all five, he said.

He added that three of the patients stopped using the drug after three to six months and the nightmares and panic never returned during an 18-month follow-up.

Delegation for London Diego Garcia evacuees protest token reward

LONDON, June 7 (ONS) - A delegation from Mauritius is expected to arrive here this month to negotiate compensation for 2,000 islanders who were evacuated from their Indian Ocean home of Diego Garcia eight years ago. The exiles, who are British subjects entitled to British passports, were moved 2,000 miles to Mauritius in 1973, so that Diego Garcia, a British colony, could be turned into an Anglo-American "communicaunns facility." The islanders have received only token compensation and live in what a receot report called, "dire poverty."

Author blames Mountbatten for costly allied offensive

LONDON, June 7 (AP) - The late Earl Mountbatten is blamed in a new book published Monday for the Dieppe raid disaster of World War II, which cost a thousand Canadian lives in apparently useless fighting on the coast of northern France.

Nigel Hamilton, in the newly released Monty: the Making of a General 1887 -1942, says that the raid across the English Channel on August 19, 1942 - controversial at the time and argued about ever since by survivors and historians — is "still surrounded by prejudice, myth and inadequate documenta-

The author, with access to cabinet documents and Field Marshal Montgomery's private papers, argues, however, that more than enough is known for the hlame to fall squarely on Mountbatten, whn put up the idea shortly after his friend, wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill, appointed him chief of combined operations.

Mootgomery came ioto the picture because he was commanding troops in southern England at the time. But although Montgomery approved plans for the raid, he proposed scrapping it when bad weather forced cancellation of the first target date in July. The raid took place a week after Montgomery arrived in Cairo to command the British Army in Egypt, the move that led to the El Alamein victory less than three months later.

"Dieppe was to be Mountbatten's greatest defeat," Hamilton writes. Later in the war, the former naval destroyer captain who had three ships sunk under him, would shine

French separatists likely to face trial

PARIS, June 7 (R) - French separatist activists released by the controversial state security court are still likely to face trial by the conventional court system, coort sources have said.

The French Justice Ministry Friday ordered the security court to release 44 prisooers awaiting trial. Thirty-one were freed Friday night and 13 were freed Saturday.

President Francois Mitterrand promised in his election campaign to abolish the controversial court as one of his policies to protect individual rights. If the National Assembly agrees to abolish it, many of the freed prisoners are likely to be tried by jury, which is not necessarily to their advantage, the sources said.

when elevated to supreme commander in Southeast Asia - "a fundamentally diplomatic role...but as chief of combined operations he was a master of intrigue, jealousy and ineptitude. Like a spoilt child he toyed with men's lives with an indifference to casualties that can only be explained by his insatiable. even psychopathic ambition."

In spring 1942, Britain had suffered a string of defeats, the Russians were pressing for some action in the West to relieve the German pressure on them in the East, and the United States had been in the war less than six mooths.

In the Dieppe raid, code-named "Operation Mbilee," 6,086 allied officers and men were sent over open beaches and up diffs against strongly entrenched German positions, in an attempt to seize the town of Dieppe, blow up German batteries, do as much damage as possible and then withdraw.

The intelligence on Germao firepower and strength was faulty. The ground fighting lasted nine hours and knocked out a single enemy coastal battery. All 28 tanks that landed were lost, and almost everything else. The 2nd Canadian Division made up the bulk of the force and lost 215 officers and 3,164 men killed, wounded and missing, of whom some 2,000 were captured.

Churchill, in his book The Second World War published 30 years ago, called the raid a "mine of experience" for the eventual allied invasion of Normandy in 1944 and argued that it led the Germans to hold men and resources in the West that "did something to take the weight off Russians."

Author Hamilton, however, says the raid "never promised anything more than a graphic illustration to the Germans of the current state of allied amphibious operations. Instead of frightening Hitler into drawing reserves from the East or Middle East, it simply served to make the British doubly unwilling to undertake a cross-channel second front at all," and thereby strained relations with the United States which was more anxious to do so,

The raid turned out to be the "most tragic and, in ratio to participating forces, the most costly allied offensive of the war, ... the Germans declined utterly to indulge in such operations on the British coast...in the most hasic flaw of all, Mouotbatten's promise of naval support artillery never came...Mountbatten allowed himself to be driven by the timeless forces of honger for power and prestige."

Supreme commander urges firmness

Soviet control of Europe feared

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AFP) — Gen. Bernard Rogers, supreme commander of ailied forces in Europe, has warned NATO allies that lack of firmness could lead to Soviet domination of Western Europe.

He said in an interview in the latest edition of U.S. News And World Report: "If the alliance fails to show the necessary resolve that the greater threat requires a greater effort ,..., "I'm concerned that we may see m Western Europe an environment comparable to what existed just before World War II."

"If the European situation deteriorates to that point, the Soviet Union might well accomplish its objective of dominating Western Europe without firing a shot," he said. that is my major concern.

Asked about the consequences for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) of the election of French Socialist President Francois Mitterrand, Gen. Rogers said that military cooperation with France over the past several years "could not have been bet-

"I am hopeful that the new government will maintain this policy of close military cooperation in the future, for it contributes greatly to the stability of deterrence," be added. NATO's capability to counter the Soviet Union was in decline, and Warsaw Pact forces outnumbered NATO by at least two to one in divisions, tanks, tactical fighters, artillery and submarines, he said.

Since 1970, NATO had also lost its technological edge over the Warsaw Pact, the general said. He added: "That is why I think NATO nations must strengthen their defenses while there is still time."

Meanwhile, former Undersecretary of State David D. Newsom said that the U.S. pledge to block the Soviets from Gulf oil fields with U.S. military might was hastily conceived and runs the risk of regional or even nuclear disaster

Newsom said the commitment by former President Jimmy Carter to restrain the Russians militarily was not thought out and appears to be based on a miscalculation of Soviet intentions. President Ronald Reagan has adopted the strategy of a U.S. buildup in the Gulf.

"There is no sign that the Soviets intend to move into the Gulf anytime soon," Newsom wrote. "Even with reinforcements, the Soviets have not committed the number of troops to Afghanistan that could quickly end the revolt there. They are unlikely to move south, leaving a strong insurgency along their border.".

At the same time, Newsom said, the United States is committed to a massive and expensive military buildup - aid and construction of bases will cost at least$5 billion a year - with "enormous and frightening implications."

S. Africans 'involved' in Thorpe case

LONDON, June 7 (AFP) - Former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson urged Sunday in a newspaper interview, that a special security commission investigate new allegations that South African "thugs" were involved in the Jeremy Thorpe scandal.

Thorpe, former leader of the Liberal Party, was acquitted in July, 1979, with former party treasurer David Holmes, of conspiracy to murder Norman Scott, a one-time male model who claimed to bave had an intimate affair with Thorpe in the early 1960.

As early as 1976, when he was stil in office. Wilson told Parliament of his concern about 'strong South African participation in recent activities relating to the leader of the Liberal Party." Now, new charges have arisen that South African agents were involved in the Thorpe scandal, seeming to support Wilson's contention.

The former prime minister told The Sunday Times that he believed the South African secret police aided by dissident, far-right officials of the British MI-5 intelligence service, bad tried to discredit Thorpe - partly because of the Liberal leader's anti-apartheid views and partly in the hope that the scandal would bring down Wilson's Labor Party gov-

The Sunday Times said the new backing for Wilson's suspicions came from a book by a former South African journalist, Gordon Winter, called Inside BOSS, South Africa's Secret Police, that will be published later this year. Rare crane hatched in captivity

BARABOO, Wisconsin, June 7 (AP) -With a little belp, the first Siberian crane ever bred in captivity pecked its way out of an egg into a world of incubators and soybean pellets, giving new hope to scientists trying to keep the species from becoming

Only about 170 of the large, migratory birds are thought to exist in the world. Christened Dushenka, which means "little loved one" in Russian, the 5-ounce (142 gm) Thursday evening after more than a day of trying to break through the shell.

"It came through the hatching just fine," said Steven Landfried, public affairs director of the International Crane Foundation. The bird looks good and strong." George Archibald, co-director of the foundation, said Dushenka's hatching represented "a major breakthrough in our efforts to save the Siberian cranes.'

The large white Siberian cranes, with black wing tips and long red beaks, have been pushed to near-extinction by hunting and the destruction of their wetland habitat. They are thought to be among the most endangered migratory birds in the world. Today no more than 170 are thought to make up two separate groups that breed in the Tundras of Siberia and migrate to Iran, India and China.

The egg has drawn international attention since it was laid May 6. Dushenka's mother. 13-year-old Hitakawa, was obtained from a Japanese zoo in 1978. The foundation bas two adult male cranes on loan from West Germany. It will not be known whether Dushenka is male or female for about a yaar, Landfried said. Foundation officials said Dushenka would be spending most of the next few weeks in a warm "brooder room," and would probably be able to spend some time outdoors in a few days.

Siberian crane chicks gain weight fast and Dushenka is expected to grow from its present 3 inches (7.6 cms) to a height of 3 feet (90 cms) by September, foundation staffers

" "SHINGTON, June 7 (R) -- President Ronald Reagan plans a nationwide campaign to win support from a reluctant Congress for his three-vear program cutting taxes by 25 percent, according to advisers James Baker and Edwin Meese.

The "Vast, far-reaching educational campaign" by Reagan, his cabinet and Congressional supporters will be modelled on bis success in getting approval for sharp budge! cuts this spring from the House of Representatives, where his opponents, the Democrats, bave a majority.

Reagan then addressed a televised joint session of Congress, personally lobbied conservative Democrats and sent Vice-President George Bush and senior aides around the Reagan proposals, but they could be offset by about 15 Republicans leaning against it, Baker said.

The Republican president told conservative Democrats Thursday that if they backed him on tax cuts, he would ool campaign against them in the 1982 Congressional elections. "I couldn't look myself in the mirror in the morning if I campaigned against someone who belped me on this program," Reagan

U.S. miners to resume work today

WASHINGTON, June 7 (R) - U.S. coalminers have voted to end a 10-week-old strike which paralysed coalfields in the east and midwest of the country.

The United Mine Workers (UMW) said Sunday night with more than 80 percent of the votes counted the ballot was running 2-1 in favor of a new contract oegotiated by the union and the bituminous coal industry. A union spokesman said work at the nation's soft coal mines would resume Monday.

The strike began in late March after the 160,000 coalminers voted to reject an earlier cootract produced after protracted talks.

UMW President Samuel Church, who led the unioo oegotiations, spent the last week touring coal mines to seek support for the new contract, the contract restored a provision requiring coal companies to pay a royalty wheo they buy oon-union coal. Royalty payments were also increased.

It gives increased economic benefits of 37.5 percent over its 40-month span. The average pay of underground miners, now about $23,500 a year, will rise to oearly $33,000 by the third year of the contract, the union said.

Riyal adjusted against dollar

JEDDAH, June 7 - In a circular to Kingdom-based banks, the Sandi Arabian Monetary Agency (SAMA) announced the devaluation of the rival against the dollar taking the oew SAMA parity level to 3.40 from 3.39 as SAMA's sellers price to commercial banks. The new selling price for the dollar for commercial customers is now 3.4042. The devaluation move by SAMA is the seventh this year and is in line with SAMA's policy of realignment of the rival's value in face of the recent dollar advances on the European exchanges advances which bave taken the dollar to new record heights against the major currencies.

Locally, SAMA's devaluation move eased the pressure that had been building up oo the rival deposit rates as well as on the spot riyal-dollar exchange rates. The latter had reached 3.3985 levels in anticipation of the SAMA move.

Rival deposit rates eased slightly after the SAMA move, but dealers said the drop in rates was not significant and did oot move by more than 1/2 percent. Short-term riyal deposit rates continued to be in demand and overnight rates were quoted at 22 perceot with on one-week money coming at 20 per-

The long-:term riyal deposit rates were on the whole seemingly unaffected by the recent dollar interest rate rises nor the SAMA move for the one-year Bahrain rate was still quoted at 15% - 16% percent on Sunday - virtually unchanged over last Saturday's levels. Most dealers were still preferring the short-date markets in the expectation of a fall in riyal rates in the immediate future, but as was demonstrated last week, the exchange markets can sometimes swing erratically in one condition making nonsense of the best well-laid plans.

Despite the fact that Suoday was a trading boliday in Europe and the United States, the Bahrain, OBU's - the offshore booking units, were making quotations on the dollar deposit levels Sunday. They were quoting the ooe-month dollar rate at 19 13/16 - 19 15/16 percent, a shade lower than the Friday dollar closing. This reaction is oatural given that a majority of dealers still feel that the dollar will peak and cannot go on rising against most currencies as was the case last week. The actions of the Federal Reserve Board Monday night will be crucial in determining whether the dollar will stay strong for the coming week.

We, Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, respect the friendly relationship of Japan and the countries of the world, and it is our sincere wish that we will contribute through our products to progress of industries and welfare of all the countries with which Japan enjoys the friendly relationship.

It is one of the basic principles of Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, in our promotion activities that we pay the utmost attention never to reflect a negative or misleading image of the nations we respect.

We were, therefore, very shocked and distressed, when we came to know that our distributor in West Germany had placed such an indecent advertisement in magazines of West Germany by themselves without knowledge of Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan.

On the very day we were informed of the fact, we, Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, immediately strongly protested against the advertisement and instructed Suzuki Motor Handles GMBH Deutschland to stop at once such an unprincipled advertisement and to arrange for the earliest public apology about their conduct, which is already being executed.

It is one of our business policies in Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, that we allow our overseas distributors to use the brand name of "Suzuki" in their promotion activities which are planned and conducted independently in accordance with the market conditions of respective countries.

We, Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, however, regretted very much that one of our distributors had made such a mistake that damages our name of "Suzuki" in spite of our spirit and principles and we have already sent a letter to all our distributors in the world to remind them that:

- (a) The spirit of Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, is to respect the friendly relationship of Japan and countries of the world.
- (b) It is the principle of Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, in the business activities that we always pay the utmost attention never to reflect a negative or misleading image of the nations we respect.
- (c) All of our distributors must act and abide by the spirit and principles of Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan.

We, Suzuki Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, most sincerely solicit lieniency of the Arab nation in this unfortunate case related to our name which happened in a manner contrary to the true spirit of ourselves in Japan.

Hamsho gains close verdict

LAS VEGAS, June 7 (AP) — Britain's Alan Minter, his hopes for another title shot frustrated Saturday by a 10-round split decision lost to Mustafa Hamsho, said he did all he could to win the fight.

"What it seems like in Las Vegas is 1 can't score with the jah," the former middleweight champion said. "I can only accuse the judg-

Minter used his right jab effectively throughout the middleweight elimination fight, but the relentless attack of Hamsho proved the difference in the scoring.

Judges Charles Minker and Hal Miller scored the fight 97-93 in favor of Hamsho, while judge Jerry Roth had Minter ahead 96-94. The Associated Press scored it 97-94 in Hamsho's favor.

"Alan won the fight, there's no question in my mind," Minter's manager Doug Didwell said. "I think this decision is diabolical."

With the win against the No. 2-ranked Minter, Hamsho, the top-ranked contender. set himself up for a title shot against undisputed middleweight champion Marvin Hagler. "If Hagler doesn't fight him next, he should be stripped of his title," said Hamsho's manager Paddy Flood.

The fight started slowly with Minter keeping his distance, content to throw right jabs to offset Hamsho's swarming style. In the fourth round, a good left hook hy Hamsho seemed to shake Minter but he responded with effective right and left combinations to keep the New York city fighter at bay.

The fifth was Minter's best round of the fight, as he hurt Hamsho with a strong left hook followed by two right hands. In the best action of the bout, both fighters went for each other unit! the bell sounded to end the round.

Hamsho stepped up the attack in the second round, pinning Minter against the ropes at one point and stinging him with two left hooks. Minter, the former middleweight champion, whose tendency to get cut has cost him several fights, was cut on the cheek in the Hamsho ran his record to 31-1-2 with the win, while Minter fell to 40-7. Minter earned $150,000 for the 10-round main event at Caesars Palace.

The winner of the bout has been promised a fight with Hagler, probably sometime in October. Minter, who took the crown from Vito Antuofermo last year at Caesars Palace, lost it when he was stopped on cut in three rounds by Hagler last September in Wembley, England. In Buenos Aires, Luis Ibarra of Panama regained the World Boxing Associatoon (WBA) flyweight title by beating the holder, Santos Laciar of Argentina on points. Ibarra, 28, constantly attacked in the early rounds and landed several blows to the hesitant champion's face. Laciar, with a badly swollen right eye and a bleeding nose, managed a rally in the tenth round but his desperate attack failed to erase the challengers lead, BIRMINGHAM, England, June 7 (R) — Three England wickets fell in the last over as Australia snatched a thrilling two-run victory with a ball to spare in the second One-Day cricket international at Edgbaston Saturday.

Dennis Lille brought all his experience to bear when called on to bowl the final over with England 244 for seven in reply to Australia's total of 249 for eight. He skilfully ran out Robin Jackman off the first ball, removed top-scorer Mike Gatting with the next and with the fifth ball had last man Mike Hendrick caught at the wicket.

England were all out for 247 with just one ball of their 55 overs left and the series of One-Day matches now stands at 1-1 with the final game heing played at Headingley, Leeds, on Monday.

England, 12-0 up shortly after half time, held out against mounting pressure to beat Argen-tina 12-6 in the second Rugby Union "Test" Saturday and take the series 1-0.

The victory gave England a final tour record of six wins and a draw. The drawn ended 19-19. A try hy Davis and a conversion and two penalties hy full-back Dusty Hare gave England their points. A try hy Travaglini, which fly Porta converted, was Argentina's only reply although it needed steadfast resistance in the closing minutes to prevent the home team narrowing the gap.

Both teams lined up the same squads which drew the first "Test" match 19-19 a week ago, and while England's victory was just about deserved, the margin stood up because

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) - Summing, who beat Pleasant Colony in that cold's first career start, did it again Saturday, winning the 11/2-mile Belmont Stakes and ruining Pleasant Colony's bid for the triple crown.

Pleasant Colony, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, could do no better than third on a warm, muggy day as Highland Blade finished second to Summing,

Instead of becoming thoroughbred racing's 12th triple crown winner — he was a 4-5 favorite to accomplish the feat - Pleasant Colony, the leggy colt trained by John Campo, became the 10th three-year-old to miss the tripple crown by losing in th Belmont. Summing, ridden by George Martens and trained by Luis Barbera, got to the front with about a half-mile to go and would not give up the lead. Jorge Velasquez put Pleasant Colony into a drive on the final turn and he moved into contention in the upper stretch. but he just didn't have enough to get the job

Summing got to the wire a neck in front of Highland Blade, ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, who finished second last year on the filly Genuine Risk. Pleasant Colony was another 11/2 lengths back and five lengths in front of Woodchopper, the second-place finisher in the Kentucky Derby. Before the race, Barbera, whose brother Laz won this race with Bold Forbes in 1976 and affirmed in 1978, had said, "I beat the horse (Pleasant Colony) once. I can beat him again.' Barrera said his only doubt was not the competition, but the distance. "If I can go a mile and a half, he won't beat us," said Barrera. Summing went the distance in 2:29, and it was fast enough.

"No excuses," said the talkative Campo, who is known as the fat man. "It happens. Don't be sorry. It's the name of the game." The defeat for Pleasant Colony was the first for the Thomas Mellon Evans-owned colt in four starts under Campo.

Borg downs Lendl for record win in French Open

PARIS, June 7 (Agencies) — Bjorn Borg defeated Ivan Land & Czachoslovakia 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 Sunday to win the French Open Tennis Chambienship for a record sixth time and the fourth year in a row.

The Swedish star presidually won the title in 1974, 1975, 1978, 1979 and 1980. Henri Cochet, one of France's legendary players, won the crown five times between 1922 and 1932, but the first time he won the championship, it was an all-French affair and was not open to foreigners.

The opening exchanges of the first set were long, marathon affairs and fike boxers fresh off their stools, the two players probed for openings from the safety of the baseline. It took Borg eight minutes to hold his opening service game and it was over a quarter-ofan-hour, with games going with service, before the two players changed ends with the Scandinavian 2-1 up.

If anything, the endless baseline exchanges were going in Borg's favour. His sledgeham-mer double-fisted backhands proved more lethal and regular than Lendi's best stroke a whipped cross-court forehand.

The Czech tried to change tactics, and bring Borg into the net in the fourth game. He paid dearly. His first drop-volley of the match saw Borg off his line like a hare, to keep the ball in play and slam a cross-court volley out of his opponent's reach to earn three break points. He took the game at a first attempt with a magnificent passing shot.

From that moment the outcome of the first set was never in doubt. Borg broke Lendl in the sixth game and gave away only one more point on his remaining two service games to pocket the set in 32 minutes.

In the second set the slender, 21-year-old Czech look a three-love lead thumping down his second service game to love after breaking Borg's opening service game in which the Scandinavian committed a double fault and mishit a shot into the stands,

Borg held on grimly, serving well in the fourth game and then breaking Lendl in the filth. But both players were beginning to feel the pace. The effects of the early, marathon exchanges, like body punches, were beginning to show. Borg finally cracked in the lenth game, surrendering the second set 4-6. The sun disappeared during the third set, and in the later games so did the Czech player's resistance. Borg made a big effort in the fifth game, pulling Lendl out of position with cross-court slice and top spin, and he was rewarded when the flagging Czech player dropped his service.

Borg made no mistakes in the next game hammering two aces to go 4-2 clear. If the sun had been hidden with the arrival of grey clouds, the heat remained, making the center-court a cauldron.

Lendl began to look extremely tired. Shots which in the earlier stages of the match had been going in were now going fractionally out or failing to clear the net. Borg gave away only four points in the last three games to take the third set.

into the court of Ivan Lendi whom he beat 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 to claim the men's singles French Open crown for a record sixth time Sunday.

Japanese finish in blaze of glory

TOKYO, June 7 (AP) - Japan won the Asian Track and Field Championship which concluded here Sunday bagging 19 gold medals to 11 of China, the second best performer. India with five gold finished third, followed by Kuwait, Thailand and Malaysia with one each in the 38 competitive events held over three days at the National Stadium, site of the 1964 Tokyo Summer Olympic Games.

Top men and women athletes from 20. countries competed for a berth on a team . which will represent Asia in the World Cup meet in Rome in September. The members of the team will be announced Monday by the Asian Amateur Athletic Council. The fifth Asian Track and Field Championship in 1983 will be held in Kuwait.

The highlight of the final day before 40,000 spectators was the special women's 10,000 meter race open to non-Asian competitors which was won by Akemi Masuda, a 17-year-old school student, in 33 minutes, 13.22 seconds. 3. The 150-centimeter tall Masuda outran 14 runners, including Americans Joan Benoit, Julie and Mary Shea and

New Zealander Allison Roe.

Masuda, Japan's national record holder for the 3,000 and 5,000 meters, jumped to a quick lead but was overtaken by Roe, 1981 Boston Marathon winner in the women's division, at the 3,800-meter point. But the Japanese girl made a strong comeback in the latter part of the race and passed Roe at the 7,000-meter mark.

From there, she cruised to an easy win over Benoit, 1979 winner of the Boston Marathon race. Benoit's second place time was 33.29.00 and Roe was timed 33:32.93 for third place.

Rajan of India won the men's 800-meter run in 1:50.21, Kuwait's Kmalid Khalafa was right behind in 1:50.37 and Japan's Takatsune Teranishi was third in 1:50.62.

The pole vault gold medal went to Japan's Tomomi Takahashi who cleared the bar at 5.20 meters, second was Rihan Ali Rihan of Saudi Arabia with a 4.40-meter mark. Another Saudi Arabian, Abdullah Awad, was third at 4.20 meters.

to take the men's long jump event over the Japanese. Junichi Usui was second at 7.94 meters and Toshihisa Yoshimoto third at 7.71 meters. Hisayo Fukumitsu, Japan's top jumper, set a new Asian record in winning the women's high jump with a 1.93-meter leap. She bettered the 1.92 mark which she shared with China's Zhen da Zheng.

Yumiko Aoi, the Asian record holder, won the women's 400-meter burdle in 59.26 seconds. Second was Hu Aiping of China in 60.68, followed by M.D. Valsamma of India.

The women's javelin throw was won by Tang Guoli of China with a throw of 61.64 meters for a new Asian record. She improved the mark of 60.42 set by Japan's Naomi Shibusawa in Japan in 1980. Shibusawa was second with a 57.08-meter throw. Third was Kanae Takahashi of Japan with a 56.16

The Malaysian quarter of Marina Chin, Mumtaz Jaafr, V. Agammah and Saik Oik won the women's 4x400 meler relay in 3:46.36. The Philippines was second in 3:55.60. Third was India in 3:59.80.

Brooking strikes twice in England's victory

BUDAPEST, June 7 (R) - England silenced the critics who had written off their World Soccer Cup chances with an exhileraling 3-1 victory over previously unbeaten Hungary in a European Group Four tie here Saturday night.

Midfielder Trevor Brooking shot England ahead after 19 minutes and although the Hungarian hit back on the stroke of balftime through Garaba, second balf goals by Brooking and Kevin Keegan, from a penalty, restored England to the top of the Group. But they are still not certain of one of the two qualifying places for the finals in Spain next England have seven points from games, Romania six from five and the Hungarians, who still have to visit both countries, five from four outings.

The English players took the field in the knowledge that it was 72 years since Hungary had been heaten hy England in Budapest but they responded in magnificent fashion. If Brooking's opener was tinged with a touch of luck, his poorly struck shot sneaked in at the post, his second in the 60th minute was a goal fit to win any game.

Phil Neal started the move with a precision pass to Keegan who flicked a first time ball into the path of Brooking. With the Hungarian defence backing off expecting Brooking to pass, the West Ham maestrodespatched a glorious left font shot past goalkeeper Katzirz high into the net.

England, beaten by lowly Switzerland last week, refused to sit on that lead and their attacking instincts were rewarded with a third goal in the 73rd minute. Keegan sped into the box and was sent tumbling by a desperate tackle from Garabar. It looked to be a fair challenge but Italian referee Paolo Casarin pointed to the penalty spot and Keegan coolly slotted borne.

Hungary were strangely lethargic and only burst into the game following Brooking's opening goal. But their equalizer was also a scrappy affair. England goalkeeper Ray Clemence failed to hold a long through ball and Garabar threaded the ball into the net through a host of defenders.

Boomers score in tie-breaker

VANCOUVER, Canada, June 7 (AP) -Victor Kodelja was the only player to score in a sbontout Saturday night as the Calgary Boomers defeated the Vancouver Whitecaps 3-2 in a north American Soccer League.

Vancouver grahbed a 2-0 lead with a goal late in the first balf by Peter Beardsley and another nine minutes into the second balf by Allan Taylor, his fourth in the last four Juan-Carlos Molina reduced the margin 2-1 and Franz Gerber scored his fifth goal of the season to draw the Bonmers even.

The victory moved the Boomers out of last place in the Northwest Division for the first time this season and put them six points ahead of Edmonton, which has played two fewer games.

In another match, Minnesota Kicks beat the Washington Diplomats 4-3. Ntsoelengoe scored two goals and one assist and was assisted on the game-winner by Don Masson and Tim Clark. It was Clark's first point in the record 7-6 and picked up nine points for the victory to give them a total of 55 points for the season. The Diplomats, in second place in the Eastern Division, dropped to 8-5. In Lisbon, Benfica won the Portuguese Fontball Cup beating F.C. Porto 3-1 on Saturday. Benfica thus achieved the "double" - the Cup and the League Champiouship, which they won last Sunday, two points ahead of F.C. Porto.

Benfica's Nene, top scorer in the championship, scored all three goals for his side while the lone Porto goal was knocked in by Benfica back Veloso

Bayern Munich stayed four points clear at the top of West German Football Championships after their 4-1 win over Borussia Moenchengladbach in Bonn.

Poland's policemen indict authority

WARSAW, June 7 (Agencies) — Police in the Polish city of Bydgoszcz have accused the authorities of using them for political purposes and said they were not to blame for violence against trade union nfficials in

The police sent an open letter to a conference of Communist Party nembers in the city Saturday rejecting respontibility for beating the unionists. The government and the Solidarity trade union will d cuss the affair in Warsaw Monday.

The union has threatened to call strikes in four provinces next week unless those responsible for the March 19 incident are named and punished. Deputy Prime Minister Mieczyslaw Rakowski will open the peace talks. Both sides have expressed confidence that the issue can be resolved without strikes.

Warsaw radio quoted the police in Bydgoszcz as saying in their open letter that "in the light of facts known to us," we consider that the sources of the events of March 19 lie beyond the leadership of the Bydgoszcz civie militia. "The correct people must be brought to book, and not functionaries who are carrying out their duties unless they bave broken the law," the letter said.

The police also described declarations of the Kaowice Forum, a hard-line group as a "horrifying example" of how not everyone had understood the events in Poland since

The Katowice Forum, which as announced it was ceasing activities after being almost universally condemned io Poland, had echoed Soviet charges that the Polish leadership was losing control and fal-ling into the hands of revisionists. It had called for a return to orthodox Communist

Meanwhile, Rakowski, who is responsible for labor relatioos, hit out at Solidarity in an interview published in the Sunday edition of

The latest Solidarity pressures - including a threatened local warning strike Thursday for action against those responsible for militia attacks on Solidarity memhers at Bydgoszcz last March was "just another attempt to provoke a political struggle with the government," he:said. It "bas nothing to do with justice."

Rakowski praised Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa as someone with whom it was possible to reach an understanding, but the same did not go for more radical leaders such as Bydgoszcz local chairman Jan Rulewski. "The problem is that the radicals within Solidarity are quite numerous," Rakowski said. He wished that economic problems would take priority over political ones and that "Solidarity would finally understand that it is in their own interest to cooperate with the government.'

Otherwise, he warned, "if they drag us to the bottom they will go to the bottom as well. For there is no way that Communists are going to give up power here and allow Solidarity to start ruling." Rakowski said the Soviets were far from intervening in Poland. "They are vitally interested in having us strengthen nur posicion so that we can manage the crisis," he said.

Soviet television Sunday signaled continu-ing support fur bard-liners in Poland who are trying to reverse reformist trends within the ruling Communist Party. In a film report from Warsaw broadcast on the main evening news, a correspondent quoted with approval from an article in Rzeczywistosc.

He said the article convincingly exposed the authors of what it called revisionist and social democratic proposals for renewing the Communist Party at its special congress next month. Its author, Tadeusz Jartszewski, emphasized that what he called social-liberal and anarcho-syndicalist views were dangerous for the party and Poland, the Soviet TV

Soviet advisers spotted in Nicaragua

PROVIDENCE, Rhode Island, June 7 (AP) — Twelve Soviet military personnel are in Nicaragua to teach pilots and technicians how to fly and maintain some Soviet helicopters receotly provided to the Sandinista government, according to a newspaper report.

The Soviets arrived 15 days ago in the capital of Managua, The Providence Sunday Jour nal said in a copyright story. The presence of Cuban military advisers and technicians in Nicaragua bas been documented, but there bad been oo previous published reports of Soviet advisers or belicopters in the Central American natioo.

In Washington, State Department spokesman David Passage said: "I'm aware of the report and I don't want to comment at this time. I do not expect any comment over the weekend." An official in a position to know about events in Nicaragua commented: 'I am not surprised by this report." He declined to be identified.

Six of the Soviets are belicopter pilots, the rest technicians, and all are military person-nel, according to an unidentified source quoted by the Journal. They are scheduled to remain in Nicaragua about 10 more weeks, another source said.

There is no indication that the Soviets are supplying military fighter aircraft, or whether the two Russian helicopters in Nicaragua are being used for military or civilian purposes, the newspaper said.

The Journal said reporter Randall Richard, who was aboard a commercial flight leaving Managua last Wednesday, photographed two belicopters parked at one end of the runway. One closely resembled an American-built Sikorsky H-34 belicopter, while the other appeared to be Soviet-built, either a MI-6 or MI-8, be reported.

The MI-6 and MI-8 are small to mediumsize "general purpose" helicopters reportedly used in the Soviet Union to ferry both military and civilian cargo, the Journal said. The Soviets, guests of the Nicaraguan Ministry of Transportatioo, arrived May 23 and have been staying at the Camino Real Hotel on the outskirts of Managua, less than 3.2 kms from the Sandino International Airport, the oewspaper reported.

Richard stayed at the same hotel during the week of May 16 and again between May 28 and last Wednesday, June 3.

There are several bundred Cuban military and non-military advisers in Nicaragua, but the Soviet presence has been limited to non-military embassy personnel and cultural advisers, a U.S. State Department source told the newspaper.

Last Thursday, the Associated Press quoted Rafael Cordoba Ribas, one of three members of Nicaragua's ruling junta, as saying his country would accept arms from either the Soviets or the United States to bolster security along the Nicaragua-Honduras border. The Sandinista National Liberation Front overthrew the government of Anastasio Somoza in July 1979 and established a five-member ruling junta.

Faced with record deficit

Schmidt coalition fails in solving problems of West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt appears to be running out of steam. His coalitioo of Social Democrats and Liberals is united over major foreign policy options, but seems incapable of solving the growing financial problems the country is facing.

Only yesterday West Germany was the "model pupil" of the Western European economy with its record economic expansioo, price stability, full employment and social calm. Today West Germany is just like any other country which has been hit by the current world economic crisis.

But it faces particularly severe problems. It has a record trade deficit of 34,000 million West German marks ($15,000 million). This is expected to increase by an additional 20,000 millioo marks (about $9,000 million)

West Germans used to being part of a "miracle economy", are starting to have doubts about themselves. This feeling is symbolized hy massive anti-nuclear power plant protest meetings, by squatters who occupy empty buildings in Frankfurt and Munich and by the vociferous opponents of basing American nuclear missiles in the country.

French left's chances soar very popular, but does not seem able to make a political comeback.

The third leader in the coalition, Herbert " Wehner, bead of the Liberal Party, is almost 75 years old. The Liberal Party is too small to make up for the declining fortunes of the dominant Social Democrats.

Finally, the Christian Democrats, after 12 years in oppositioo, are still searching about for a coherent political program and a leader to take them to victory. Most political observers believe that this slow wearing down of the government cannot last very much longer. They see three possible solutions by autumn. They are:

1. The chancellor once more becomes his old aggressive self and draws up a wide ranging program of social, economic and financial

2. The coalition will die slowly, with the Social Democrat Party splitting over main

3. There will be a reversal of political alliances, with the Liberals joining the Christian Democrats and forming a coalition government, or forcing parliamentary elections. In any case, there is little doubt that over the oext few months Germans will have to tighten their belts, and become used to West Germany being like any other country hit by the world economic crisis.

Craxi gives up quest for Italy premiership

ROME, June 7 (R) — Socialist leader Bet-tino Craxi has hinted that the had temporarily given up his quest to become the Italian republic's first non-Christian Democratic prime minister. But he said he expected the search for a new government to replace the one that fell on May 26 to take weeks rather

"The need is widely felt for a change and an alternation in the political leadership of the government, but the political conditions for this have oot arrived yet," be said in an interview published in Sunday's edition of the daily La Stampa of Turin.

He said his meetings with Christian Democratic leaders in the past few days has shown mntual readiness for an agreement. "If. unforeseen obstacles do not arise, the present crisis could find a solution in the space of a few weeks," be said.

Prime Minister-designate Arnaldo Forlani, who was given the task of trying to form a oew coalition 10 days ago, continued discussions with his own party leaders. He will soread talks with his four likely coalition partners over the next three days before reporting to President Sandro Pertini.

Communist leader Enrico Berlinguer accused the Christian Democrats and the Socialists of deliberately delaying an agreement. "Other crises have been long" because of the difficulty of resolving real and visible differences," he said in a speech in Genoa.

Good Morning By Jihad Al Khazen

More on violence in sport. (Last instalment for a while — 1 promise you.)

The thing oow is overspilling football, where it all started, and where it is still at its fiercest. It has reached, as I had to witness to my shocked surprise, even the opulent sport of motor racing - hitherto a very peaceful sport, at least within the spectator stands.

I was recently in Monaco, at the time of the Grand Prix - the race which Saudi-Williams dominated up until the last minute, when Alan Jones had to have some repairs done.

I was watching the race from my botel room. In the halcony next to mine was a group of Australian cothusiasts. One of them sooo found we wore rooting for the same man: the said Mr. Jones, Who is an Australian, Jokes were exchanged, and friendly insults to the competitors were shouted. Directly below the balcony of the Australian cootingeot, there was an equally demnnstrative group. They were Italians supporting, of course, the Ferrari team. They were so keen they came complete with a huge Italian flag, which they waved about every time their man appeared to be doing well. Our side tolerated them while Saudi - Williams were doing well. As our car faltered, we began to think they were heing less than sporting about the whole thing. We began asking them to keep it down a bit, as it was only a race - no ootice was taken of course. Finally their team won. Any they hit the roof. Literally in this case, with their tall flag. The Australians, to my borror, clearly saw this as an impertinent provocation. Not one of the world's most patient people, they decided on immediate action. One of them bent down and got hold of the flag the opposition was waving so proudly. One strong yank and it came into his hand. This was done in the face of my strongest protests, of course.

The Italians were infuriated and started lobbing whatever reached their bands at our balconies (a complicated maneuver which they managed effectively). The Australians rained down chairs and empty bottles on them. Forcing them quickly indoors. (Yours truly throughout advocating reason and recoodiliation).

Turkish minister leaves for U.S.

ANKARA, June 7 (AP) — Turkish Defense Minister Umit Haluk Bayulken left Sunday for the United States to discuss "defense cooperatioo" with U.S. Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger.

Turkish government sources said Bayulken is expected to review the one-year-old U.S.-Turkish "joint defense cooperation agreement" that allowed the opening of a dozen U.S. bases in Turkey. The bases were shut down by Turkish authorities following a U.S. congressional arms embargo in 1975.

The arms embargo was lifted in September 1978 but more than 20 American bases and intelligeoce-gathering stations remained closed mitil re-activiation last March. The sources said Bayulken will also seek ways to obtain U.S. assistance to help Turkey start an armaments industry. Bayulken is expected to spend 10 days in the United States.
